

New Librarian Finds Civil War Ordnance In Office

Posted At : July 23, 2017 6:46 AM | Posted By : Admin

Related Categories: Unusual Munition Finds

Carlisle, Massachusetts A new librarian on her first day on the job at the Gleason Public Library came across Civil War era ordnance while cleaning out a closet. The ordnance was reportedly part of a Gettysburg collection of material donated to the town over a year ago.

A note was included in with the ordnance that stated the items "had been examined by a munitions expert and could be live.". Concerned, the librarian contacted the police who responded with the local bomb squad.

The bomb squad removed the ordnance for disposal off-site.