Camp Guernsey, Wyoming Answering a call to eliminate the hazards imminent in housing old military munitions, residents will be able to dispose of such ordnance during Camp Guernsey Joint Training Center's military munition amnesty day at the end of this month.

The center announced that it will hold the amnesty day on October 30 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. During this time, people are encouraged to dispose of military munitions with no questions asked. Any ammunition that is safe to move may be dropped off at the camp. Anyone possessing military ammunition that is considered too dangerous to move, may contact the camp directly.
