

Civil-War Era Mmunition Washes Ashore

Posted At : August 15, 2014 4:15 AM | Posted By : Admin

Related Categories: Bomb Disposal Related

Watervliet, New York A Civil-War era munition washed ashore on the bank of the Hudson River. The New York State Police Bomb Squad responded and safely transported the munition to a quarry 40-miles south of Glens Falls where it was safely disposed of through an open detonation procedures. The exact type of Civil-War era munition was not reported.