

WWII Ordnance is an Unwelcomed Visitor on the Vineyard

Posted At : August 27, 2020 4:27 PM | Posted By : Admin

Related Categories: WWII Era UXO Finds - Underwater Related

Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts A state police bomb squad responded to recover and dispose of unidentified military ordnance that washed onshore on the Vineyard. The ordnance, believed to be practice rounds fired on Nomans Land prior to WWII, was safely counter-charged at the old Edgartown landfill, according to Edgartown police chief Bruce McNamee. The ordnance was recovered over the course of a weekend on South Beach in Edgartown, as well as on Wasque Beach on Chappaquiddick.