Perran Sands, United Kingdom The St. Agnes Coastguard Rescue Team (CRT) was called into action when a beachgoer found a suspected ordnance item, picked it up, and carried it to a lifeguard stand on the beach. The lifeguards quickly secured the area and notified the Falmouth Coastguard.

CRT took pictures of the item and sent them to a Royal Navy EOD team, who responded to the scene to carry out a controlled explosion to dispose of the UXO. Despite the negligent moving of the item by the person who discovered it, no injuries were reported. The exact type of UXO involved was not reported.
